City Recruiting Volunteers to Serve on Advisory Committees & Commissions

Maple Ridge, B.C. – The City of Maple Ridge has launched a recruitment campaign to fill vacancies in a number of Advisory Committees and Commissions that provide expertise and input to Council across a number of Strategic Priority areas.

“Our Committees and Commission members bring their unique perspectives, passion and expertise to provide Council with advice to help us find solutions and develop policies that will move our City forward,” said Mayor Dan Ruimy.

He continued, “All of us on Council have roles as the liaison to these groups, and the diversity of voices and views allows us to tap special expertise to assist our decision making. Having volunteers from different backgrounds, age groups and vocations makes our City more inclusive and resilient. We encourage you to apply for these positions if you have an interest or special knowledge that will benefit the City.”

There are positions available for the following Council appointed Committees:

- Agricultural Advisory Committee,
- Community Heritage Commission,
- Economic Development Advisory Committee,
- Environmental Advisory Committee,
- Municipal Advisory Committee on Accessibility and Inclusiveness,
- Parks, Recreation and Culture Advisory Committee,
- Public Art Steering Committee,
- Social Policy Advisory Committee, and
- Transportation Advisory Committee
